Welcome to #CroweChallenge Game Nights at TEI's 71st Midyear Conference. We invite you to play a 30-minute game created by Crowe, modeled after the televised game show, Jeopardy. Player instructions and rules

Getting ready to play!

You'll get started by clicking on the Zoom meeting link that was sent in the email as part of your invitation. You can join using your computer, tablet, or smartphone device. You must be on camera to ensure everyone is fairly and accurately represented as who they say they are.

If you don't have the Zoom app installed on your device, it will instruct you to install it. The Zoom room will open 15 minutes early – so feel free to join then to ensure your device is configured and working.

The event will kick off about 5 minutes after the start time to allow any players to join who may be running a bit late.

Your host will walk through some housekeeping items to remind everyone of the rules and how the event is going to be played. Please continue below for additional information.

#CroweChallenge the game

Each contestant will play individually, using your on-screen name.

Each game will be comprised of two rounds: Single Challenge and Final Challenge. The top-three point-scorers from the single round will proceed to the final round.

There will be one Daily Double in the Single Challenge round. Contestants can receive double the points.

For each answer, your host will read the answer and then ask you to submit your responses in the chat box. Please submit your response IN THE FORM OF A QUESTION. You will have 10 seconds to respond; THE PERSON WHO RESPONDS FIRST IN THE CHAT BOX WITH THE CORRECT QUESTION will receive the points assigned to that answer. Point values will be tallied in our leaderboard.

After the Single Challenge round, the host will announce the current scores and the contestants who will proceed to the Final Challenge round.

The host will tally final scores after the Single Challenge round is completed. If there is a tie, tied players will go into the tie-breaker round to compete in answering a new category of questions until the tie is broken.

*Crowe is not responsible for any delay in responses or error caused by a malfunction or failure of any and all technology systems during this game.

How to play (HINT: Research Crowe presenters prior to the game.)

The host will announce a category and a point value.

The host will read the answer.

Contestants will have 10 seconds to submit their response in the form of a question in the chat box. Your answers do not have to be spelled correctly, but they must be phonetically correct. If it's misspelled, it will come down to the judgment call of the moderator/host.

The first player to respond correctly in the chat box will be awarded the point value of the answer. Incorrect answers will not be penalized.

If none of the players give a correct response, the host reads the correct response and moves on to the next answer.

Continue until all categories have been completed.

The players with the top-three point totals proceed to the Final Challenge. The first contestant to answer with the correct response in Final Challenge, wins the game.

The winning individuals will be announced along with any included prizes. We will ask all participants/winners for your contact information in order to get your prizes to you.
