Professional Summary

- Currently the Managing Partner at Crowe Soberman, a partner in the firm's Tax Group, and member of its Management Committee, Adam joined the firm as a staff accountant in 1999, transferred to the Tax Group two years later and has spent the remaining years honing his skills and developing his expertise. Adam works in many areas of tax including: personal and corporate tax planning and compliance, assistance with SR&ED claims, estate planning for individuals and handling complex international cross-border tax.

Experience

- Combining his expertise in international cross-border issues with a genuine passion for sports, Adam has also become a co-leader in the Sports and Entertainment Group, working with professional athletes in hockey, baseball, football, soccer and basketball, musicians, actors and entertainers, behind-the-scenes personnel including touring crews, film directors and producers, foreign corporations operating in Canada, and individuals immigrating to and emigrating from Canada. Adam also handles due diligence tax work and structures transactions for foreign entities doing business in Canada. Adam also works with professionals, including doctors, and lawyers.
- Adam is a contributor of tax-focused articles for our blog, inFocus, as well as the firm's Tax Letters. He is regularly quoted in the media, has appeared on various radio programs and makes complex tax information more accessible on Twitter. You can follow Adam at: <https://twitter.com/sobermantax>.
- Outside of the office, Adam serves as a member of the Estate Planning Council of Toronto, sits on the planning committee for the Arthritis Society's popular All-In for Arthritis Poker Gala, and volunteers his services at tax clinics for low-income individuals and families. He is a supporter and promoter of Kayla's Children's Center and Holland Bloorview Kids Rehabilitation Hospital and their events.
