Professional Summary

- As a partner in Crowe Soberman's Audit & Advisory practice and a member of the Firm's Management Committee, Jeffrey works with owner-managed businesses and high-net-worth individuals from the following sectors:
  - Music, Entertainment, Sports and Media, including high-profile athletes, artists and musicians
  - Franchisors and Food services
  - Manufacturers and Distributors
  - Global and Cross-border taxation

Experience

- He approaches each client's needs holistically, with the goal of providing practical, results-oriented solutions to their often, very complex issues. And in our current political climate, the complexity of his clients' financial and operational management, is only increasing. As such, he is regularly across the border assisting clients in setting up operations in new jurisdictions as well as addressing their lifestyle or business financial requirements.
- Jeffrey is frequently sought out for his opinions by The Globe & Mail, National Post, La Presse and other media outlets. He is a frequent speaker, presenter and contributor on the topics of:
  - New business ventures
  - Tax planning on an international scale
  - Tax considerations for cross-border moves targeted to athletes, coaches and agents
  - An expert's approach to wealth management for professional athletes
- Jeffrey's passion for the Sports, Entertainment and Media industries spills into his time outside the office as well. He is actively involved with the Sports Legacy Institute for Brain Injuries for Athletes and has served as an executive board member, director and treasurer for the Canadian Paralympic Foundation.
