Professional Summary

- Marissa Verskin is a partner in the firm's Tax Group. With over 20 years of experience in public accounting and tax, Marissa's experience enables her to provide advice that is creative, practical, and technically sound.
- Marissa identifies tax-saving planning opportunities for her clients, works with them and their legal counsel to implement tax-planning suggestions, and ensures that clients are compliant with both personal and corporate tax measures. Marissa takes complex technical tax concepts and explains them in a clear and concise fashion to ensure that clients understand their tax situation.

Experience

- Marissa works with clients across multiple industries, including those in real estate and the charitable sector. She advises private corporations and high net-worth individuals on a variety of domestic tax matters including: estate and succession planning, post-mortem planning, corporate taxation and restructuring, corporate compliance, personal tax, private foundations, and trust planning. Marissa advises charitable organizations on ongoing tax issues, compliance obligations, and registration.
- Marissa is active in the Toronto community where she has acted on various boards and committees and has taught for CPA Canada.
