

Customs-ID

Are you paying too much customs duty?

Customs duty - the hidden tax.

Customs duty is a direct cost of importing, but is often hidden from view and left by importers to customs agents to declare on their behalf.

Few importers know how much duty they pay or have the visibility and control to manage their customs obligations efficiently and compliantly, leaving them exposed to potentially expensive and damaging customs audits.

Our analytics tool, Customs-ID, supports compliance as well as identifying opportunities for duty savings and control over your international supply chain and customs duty obligations.

Customs-ID is a powerful tool in assessing:

customs duty reclaim opportunities

if you could benefit from customs special procedures

if your import VAT is being managed effectively

errors which may be investigated by a customs audit

how your customs agents are performing if there is a need to review staff responsibilities and training.

We use the tool's dashboard to produce a digestible 'insights' report for you, detailing key trends, findings, and recommendations, which we can help to implement.

Retrospective review

This offering involves analysis of your customs data going back up to three years, to include:

- full data analysis using Customs-ID
- presentation with key figures, findings, opportunities, risks, and duty exposure
- workshop to walk through the presentation and the suggested actions and next steps.

Annual subscription

This offering involves an annual go-forward subscription to our customs data analytics service, to include:

- quarterly data analysis using Customs-ID
- four quarterly reports on key figures, findings, opportunities, risks, and duty exposure
- access to an ongoing 'customs audit' and monitoring of your compliance profile, with red flags identified in a timely manner.
